Canvas Studio Art is pleased to offer sculpture workshops with Joel Levinson. Participants are encouraged to develop their own style as they advance their skills. They are instructed in the basic forms of portraiture before addressing surface details. Precision of form is pursued by using calipers, measurements and photos. Participants will find that likeness develops before the surface is addressed. Portrait sculpture has been expressed in a variety of styles with various degrees of realism and abstraction. Each sculptor has the freedom to interpret their subjects according to their own vision.

Materials including Chavant's LeBeau Touche, clay, armature materials and tools will be available.

Joel Levinson is a sculptor living and working in Long Branch, NJ. The present direction to his work is to explore the possibilities of expressing emotions and movement in time through a series of self-portrait studies. His lifelong influences are Auguste Rodin, and, Jo Davidson. The goal is one day to be recognized as a participant, no matter how small, in the long lived tradition of portrait sculpture.
